

Great Game of Huddle Notes

January 29, 2019

Angie Crews opened today's meeting.

The huddle group watched an SRC Huddle Meeting Video: What do we see?

- Starts at 12:00 PM - 12:45 PM
- Everybody's engaged
- Game boards everywhere
- Posters all over the room (numbers, goals, win, lose)
- Teammates helping each other out and with different team mates
- Spot to put their notebook
- All in it, one purpose, everybody gave their statistics

Line of Sight within our offices.

Being able to relate and connect down the dotted line. To make sure that everyone understands and is on the same page.

Examples:

- Understanding how my work product affects the next person
- Using communication to build relationships – take out the emotion
- Questioning the number, not the person
- What are those critical numbers affecting the County and being able to identify them
- Taking ownership even if it's not our job
- Understanding the "why" about things - there were many times Greene County employees learned about events affecting the County through the newspaper. Now the Huddle is a communication tool where everyone is able to share and understand information about the County.

Huddle Improvements In the works and Need Feedback:

- Offering a live session for employees to view the huddle for those front line employees who are unable to leave their department.
- Ongoing County department education
- Getting everyone on the same page
- What's new and what we need to start working on
- Training for new hire (in the works from HR)
- How do we make it interactive for more people to show up and be engaged

Harold Bengsch: "How many of us know what each department does and how it may affect the individual departments."

Welcomed John Russell the new 2nd District Commissioner.

Food for thought: In your departments and within your own position, how many people/departments do you have interaction with and how does information pass through that line of communication?
